

February 28, 2011

Dear Iperia Customers,

I'm extremely pleased to let you know that on February 11, Iperia was acquired by PAETEC Holding Corp., a Fortune 1000 full-service communications company. After careful consideration, we have decided to join forces with PAETEC, realizing the mix of our messaging and mobility product offerings along with PAETEC's nationwide network and large customer base would make a new, powerful combination in the marketplace. So, as a result, we believe we can now serve you and your customers better than we ever have before.

This transaction not only ensures the stability and growth opportunities for Iperia's business but also allows us to tap into the deep talent and resources of PAETEC. Additionally, we'll be able to innovate new applications and capabilities into the market at a faster pace than being on our own, which will ultimately benefit our customers.

Our customers are, and will remain, extremely important to us. We are not planning to change how we support or interact with you, however we do plan to enhance these areas over time to benefit our current and growing customers. I am also pleased to mention that all of us from the Iperia team will remain in our respective roles ensuring a seamless transition and continued focus on the Iperia business. Given the ownership of Iperia by PAETEC, we recognize that in some cases our customers may view this arrangement as competitive. PAETEC has a long, standing wholesale business of working with other service providers, which is where we will reside. We will continue to operate independently with a clear separation between our companies.

I for one couldn't be more excited about this transaction, and I hope you see the additional benefits we will be able to offer to your business as a result of being part of a much larger company. If you have any questions or concerns at all, please contact us.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "S. Waicberg", is placed within a light gray rectangular box.

Sam Waicberg
President and CEO
Iperia